

ABOUT ME

I'm an artist and developer from Puerto Rico.

Ever since I started college at the University of Puerto Rico i've been fascinated by the web and its possibilities as a medium for art, economy, and social change. This interest became a passion that got me into working in this industry as a self-taught developer using and learning languages such as Javascript, PHP and C#.

I am driven by constant change, having fun, innovating, making a statement and a difference.
